TO THE SHOW

A photograph of two young children sitting in a cockpit simulator. The child on the left is a boy with dark hair, wearing a pink shirt, with black face paint around his eyes and a small orange and yellow design on his forehead. He is smiling. The child on the right is a girl with light brown hair, wearing a dark grey hoodie, looking forward with a neutral expression. They are both holding the control yokes. The background shows the interior of the simulator with various panels and controls. The lighting is bright, suggesting an outdoor setting.

Luddenham, enjoy your show.

LUDDENHAM SHOW

Lots to do at the show!

After a two-year hiatus, Luddenham Show will be returning on Saturday, March 4 and Sunday, March 5, promising a host of new and returning festivities for the whole family to enjoy.

Cancelled in 2021 due to the pandemic, and again last year with flooding added to the mix, committee member Katherine Wong recalls the decisions being difficult both for those involved, and for the broader community in Luddenham.

"It wasn't a decision we made lightly, but we had to do it," she said.

Despite having some extra time on their hands, Wong said the committee ensured none of it was wasted, instead focusing on making their return bigger and better than ever.

"We were able to do a lot of work around the Showground in upgrades, that gave us time to do a lot of maintenance," Wong said.

"We've got a new poultry and cattle pavilion, a new cattle arena, we've got a new asphalt walkway running through the Showground. We've really been able to make the most of the downtime and make the Showground better, to cater for more exhibits and more crowds in general."

When it comes to stage entertainment,

Luddenham Show promises to have something to see all day and night, with everything from singers, magicians, reptile shows, whip cracking, an ice cream eating competition and a bush balladeer in the stacked lineup.

However, that doesn't mean there isn't always activities and exhibits to enjoy around the Showground, with Wong promising some classic favourites, as well as some new things to check out.

"We've got our classic bull ride, horse entries, dog high jump which is always a family favourite, but we've also the Eljay Freestyle Motorbike and BMX Stunt show, which is new for this year, and a couple of other fun new things as well, like wheelie bin races and gumboot throwing, that people can get involved in," she said.

"It's a really good mix!"

With thousands of people expected to walk through the gates, it's no surprise that Luddenham Show has something for everyone, promising affordable fun for all ages.

"We'd love to see as many people as we can not only enter the show, but come through the gates and bring their friends and family to get behind it and support the community," Wong said.

Luddenham Show will be on at Luddenham Showground on Saturday, March 4 and Sunday, March 5. For more information, visit luddenhamshow.com.au.
