Supercars set to light up Sydney

Sydney Motorsport Park will host the Supercars Championship from July 28-30 in an historic night-time event.

The countdown is on to the jewel in the Supercars crown – the Bathurst 1000 in October – but before then, Sydney will get its chance to host the best drivers in the country.

The track schedule for the highly anticipated first-ever race under lights between the Gen3 Chevrolet Camaros and Ford Mustangs, at the Sydney SuperNight, has been officially released.

This year's event marks not one, but two significant firsts for the Supercars Championship.

Firstly, it will be the inaugural night race of the Gen3 era, bringing a thrilling new dimension to the championship.

Additionally, the event will introduce races of different lengths for the first time.

The Saturday night encounter on July 29, will see the new Supercars go head-to-head under the Sydney Motorsport Park lights in a 51-lap race. The action continues on Sunday, July 30, with a race held in the afternoon, spanning 36 laps.

Supercars CEO Shane Howard said: "The Beaurepaires Sydney SuperNight will feature the very best of on track entertainment for the sport. With different strategies required for both races, and the element of night racing, there will be something for everyone at one of our most famous circuits later this month."

Defending Supercars Champion Shane van Gisbergen has a chance to join Mark Skaife atop the all-time winners list at Sydney Motorsport Park. Skaife holds the all-time win record in Sydney with 10 victories, while van Gisbergen is an eight-time winner at the same circuit.

Tickets are available now through Ticketek.
